ADMINISTRATION

A DUKE UNIVERSITY IDEAL

By PRESIDENT W. P. FEW

Duke University is made up of seven units, each with its own purposes and organization but all founded on certain central, unifying principles and with the College at the heart of it. The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences with its objective pursuit of knowledge and devotion to truth, and other Graduate Schools, particularly the Medical School, will, like American higher education in general, show the influence of German universities. The Colleges—the one for men and the other for women—with the emphasis on character and culture and on training for service to country, to causes, and to humanity, will be in the English tradition of education; and this will explain the architecture here. These buildings tie us to the historic traditions of learning in the English speaking race. The colleges, essentially in the English tradition of education, and graduate and professional schools, affected by German and other influences, are to be welded into an American university that will seek to know and use the best that has been achieved elsewhere, but that will at the same time seek to make its own appropriate contribution to the cause of education.

Secretary and Treasurer*

THE BUSINESS DIVISION

In the organization of Duke University there are three vice-presidents who have supervision of the work of the University in the divisions of business, education, and student life. The vice-president in the business division is Treasurer and has the custody of all property of the University: that is, he has the primary responsibility for all collections and disbursements, for all securities and financial records, and for the care of the entire physical plant. He is also Secretary of the University and is charged with the duty of acting as Secretary of the Board of Trustees, the Executive Committee of the Board, and of the faculty. The correspondence with prospective students, with special emphasis on the undergraduates, is under the supervision of the Secretary's Office. The loan division, which has general supervision of providing help for students in need of financial assistance, is under the direction of the office of the Secretary-Treasurer.

In the development of the University, the responsibility of the business division has been greatly increased. The by-laws require that a monthly report be made to the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees and an annual report to the Trustees. This is prepared under the direction of Dr. Flowers and submitted to the Committee and Trustees by him.

To administer the business of the University in all the different units and sub-divisions requires the services of a large number of people. The vice-president in charge of this division is Dr. R. L. Flowers.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Nearly a century old, Trinity, the undergraduate college of arts and sciences for men of Duke University, is and probably always will be the very heart of the university. Its history, not so long as that of some other American colleges, reveals continuous progress from inconspicuous beginnings, with steadfast devotion to unselfish and noble ideals. It has had great struggles, brave adventures in defense of its faith and its hope, and enheartening achievements. Mother in spirit of thousands dead and living, it finally became the mother of Duke University, destined to become a great center for the profound, reverent, devoted search for truth and its dissemination. At the heart of this university, Trinity will always take gladly as its task the liberalizing and chastening of the minds and hearts of youth that they may wisely and nobly fill their splendid places in a world of work, hope, faith, and love.

Great care is being used to admit as students only those whose previous record shows a character, determination and application evincing a wholesome and real ambition for life. Students thus accepted for college through careful processes of selective admission are especially for the first two years under the guidance of teachers who have been chosen for their personal qualities and teaching power as well as for knowledge of their subjects. Students, after two years in college including diligent summer reading have the chance to enter our professional schools or to take such advanced courses in the college or graduate school as they may be prepared to take.

ALICE MARY BALDWIN
A.B., A.M., Ph.D.
Dean of the Woman's College

THE WOMAN'S COLLEGE

In the summer of 1923 Miss Baldwin first came to Trinity College as acting dean of the Summer School and in February of 1924 became Dean of Women. For the past two years she has been Dean of the Woman's College. Miss Baldwin is a New Englander by birth and ancestry but has spent much of her life in the middle and western states. She received her A.B. and A.M. degrees from Cornell University and her Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

Although most of her time is given to her work as dean, Miss Baldwin is also associate professor of history. Her chief interest lies in the field of constitutional history.

Since Miss Baldwin came, great changes have occurred in the life of the women. In 1923 about one hundred and thirty women lived in Southgate, the only women's dormitory, and altogether the women numbered less than three hundred. This year seven hundred and thirty-five women have been registered and more than five hundred are living on the campus. Instead of one dormitory there are seven; instead of being confined after one o'clock to the southwest corner of the campus the women now have as their own the whole old campus and they share in many ways in the life of the new campus. Changes equally as great have occurred in almost every phase of the college life.

In all these rapid changes the Woman's College has set before itself not material expansion only but a steady development in intellectual power and sincerity, in spiritual beauty, and in fair and disciplined living.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Since the forming of the Duke graduate school of arts and sciences in the 1924-25 session, this department has shown phenomenal growth. The present enrollment is placed at 233 in comparison with the 41 original members. While no degrees of Ed.M. and Ph.D. were conferred during the first year of the graduate school, last year eleven of the former degrees and nine of the latter were conferred. The number of M.A. degrees granted last year is over twice the number granted in 1925.

The first step towards the formation of a graduate school here was made by President Few in 1916. The entrance of the United States in the World War, however, postponed this work, and it was not until 1924 that the school was definitely established.

Not only has the graduate school increased its attendance during the regular sessions, but also during the two summer sessions. Many college and secondary school instructors have taken the opportunities offered them at Duke to work on their master and doctor degrees.

Many factors have contributed to the growth of the Duke graduate school. Recent faculty appointments, increased scholarship facilities, the great improvement in the University library, all have had their share in the work.

Dr. William H. Glasson, as dean of the graduate school since its formation, deserves much credit for his tireless work. Assisting him at present is Dr. Robert S. Rankin, who, in the position of assistant dean, is serving to lighten and aid in Dean Glasson's duties.

ELBERT RUSSELL
A.B., A.M., Ph.D.
Dean of the School of Religion

THE SCHOOL OF RELIGION

The School of Religion is completing its sixth year, which has been on the whole, a year of steady progress. Professor B. Harvie Branscomb is spending his sabbatical leave studying in Europe and the Near East. He received a grant from the Guggenheim Foundation for the study of the relation of contemporary Judaism to Early Christianity. Professor Paul N. Garber took his sabbatical leave the second half of the year devoting himself to research in Southern Church History. He continued, however, his work as Registrar and supervised a large number of theses in the Department of Church History. Professor H. Shelton Smith of the Divinity School of Yale University joined the faculty last fall as Professor of Religious Education. Dr. Kenneth W. Clark of the University of Chicago joined the faculty as instructor in New Testament.

Of the 149 students in attendance the present year, fifty-seven have served in pastoral charges while carrying on their studies, and sixty-seven are receiving scholarships from the Duke Rural Church Foundation. During the summer, they will spend ten weeks in practical rural church work in part repayment for the scholarships. This work serves also as a sort of clinic in rural church work, and their experience in it is made the basis of class work during part of the scholastic year. The courses which may be counted toward the degree of Bachelor of Divinity have been increased by additional courses in Religious Education, the Psychology of Religion, Philosophy, and Sociology. Next year, the Department of Religious Education is to be reorganized and Psychology of Religion is to constitute a separate department.

THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE AND DUKE HOSPITAL

On October 1, 1930, the school of medicine began its four quarter plan by which students can obtain the M.D. certificate in either three or four years, depending upon whether they study four or three quarters each year. In the first class, fifty-two first year and eighteen junior students were admitted. On June 22, 1931, six junior students were added and on October 3, 1931, sixty-four first year and thirteen junior students were admitted. Of those accepted in 1930, forty-seven were advanced to the second year and eighteen to the senior class—a total of one hundred forty-eight students, from eighty-four colleges and universities and twenty-nine states and seven foreign countries. There has been a large and increasing number of applicants each year. Seventy-five per cent of the students have availed themselves of the four-quarter-three-year plan. Sixteen students have spent one quarter at other medical schools and centers in this country and Europe, a practice which is encouraged. The first class will complete the required courses on March 19, 1932, and be graduated on June 8, 1932.

In the Duke Hospital, from July 21, 1930 to June 30, 1931, 3,230 patients were treated for 42,269 days of care. 1,439 operations were performed and 2,972 visits were made to the public dispensary. By December 31, 1931, the number of patients treated in the hospital and public dispensary had increased to 10,175.

JUSTIN MILLER

THE SCHOOL OF LAW

A well-trained faculty; a carefully selected student body; a curriculum planned to meet the recognized requirements of modern professional training; an adequate library; these have constituted the immediate goal of the Duke Law School during the two years of its reorganized existence on the campus. Significant progress has been made toward this goal. Specifically, the following basic steps have been taken:

1. A faculty of twelve full-time men has been secured who hold law degrees from such outstanding universities as Harvard, Yale, Stanford, Oxford, Pennsylvania, Michigan, California and Iowa; five of these degrees being from the Harvard Law School alone. Moreover, they have had teaching experience in all of the schools named except Oxford, and in twelve other approved law schools scattered throughout the nation, viz., Columbia, Chicago, Illinois, Cornell, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Southern California, West Virginia, Oregon, Washington, and Montana. Practically all of them have engaged in practice. Individual members have been deans of other law schools, presidents of state bar associations and of the Association of American Law Schools, and have participated in a wide variety of other public and private professional activities.

2. The accumulation of over 41,000 volumes in the law library puts Duke in first place in this respect among all law schools of the South.

3. In addition to the standard professional curriculum which has been established, new methods of legal education in use at Duke include a Legal Aid Clinic, a Department of Legislative Research and Drafting, and a course in Current Decisions. Experiments are being made in other directions, including the organization of a student bar association.

HOLLAND HOLTON
A.B., J.D.
Director of the Summer School

DUKE UNIVERSITY SUMMER SCHOOL

Duke University Summer School was organized in 1919 with an enrollment of 88 students in a single term of six weeks. Last summer there were enrolled 932 students in the first term and 482 in the second term, in addition to 223 in the affiliated school at Lake Junaluska and 39 in the Junaluska School of Religion, which is also affiliated. There have been in all 12,105 registrations in the summer school during the twelve years of its operation by a total of 5,468 students. This means that the average student has returned for at least one additional term.

The chief purposes of the summer school, as stated by Dr. Holland Holton, director, who is also head of the department of education and chairman of the faculty committee in charge of the various summer school interests of the University, are first, to utilize the University plant the entire year as nearly as possible; second, give to mature and ambitious students opportunity for continuous work; and third, to coöperate in the teacher-training programs of the states from which the University draws its enrollment. A noteworthy feature of last summer's first term statistics was the large proportion of graduate students, constituting 45 per cent of the total enrollment, drawn from twenty-eight different states and holding bachelors' degrees from one hundred and forty different colleges and universities.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC RELATIONS AND ALUMNI AFFAIRS

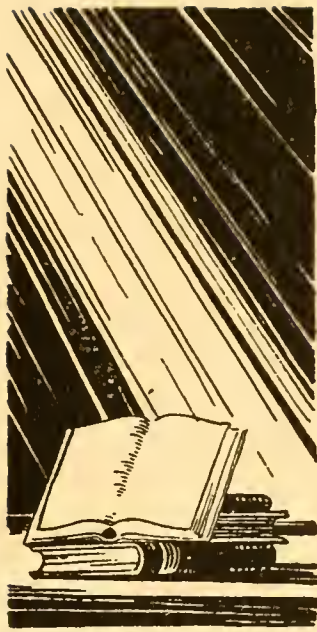

The Department of Public Relations and Alumni Affairs, of which Henry R. Dwire, '02. is director, was organized in 1930, though several features of the work had been carried on previously. As denoted in its name, the department's work is divided into two principal divisions: alumni affairs and public relations. Compilation of biographical records of all former Trinity and Duke students is an important task of the alumni division. Publication of the Alumni Register, bulletins, and other printed matter sent to alumni throughout the world is also a vital part of the work.

In its direct contacts with alumni, the department plans for various alumni meetings, assemblies, and reunions. Each of the two councils meets twice a year at the University. Alumni Home-Coming Day each fall, Alumnae Home-Coming in May, Duke University Day each December 11, and Alumni Day during commencement are sponsored by the alumni organization with the full coöperation of the department.

In its public relations activities the department seeks to maintain contacts not handled in the alumni office work. This involves general publicity through the publication and circulation of booklets, photographs, and other material directly from the department. It includes the work of the News Service which provides the newspapers and news agencies with information in which the public is interested.

The department heads the work of sending out speakers requested by schools, clubs, civic, and other organizations. Last year more than 40 commencement speakers, all members of the Duke faculty and administration, were secured for communities in many sections of North Carolina and nearby states. Publication of University booklets and catalogues, and the mailing of these, in addition to its connection with the Duke Press, makes the publication activities of the department extensive.

In all phases of its work, the Department of Public Relations and Alumni Activities endeavors to serve not only the constituency of the University and public generally, but all those of the University community.

Starting off this page, we see a view of the Medical School Dedication. Under this is a view of the West Campus as seen from the Chapel and below it some of the carillon bells which were recently installed. And, we all wonder how the moon got over on the right side of the chapel.

On this page the reader sees first a Commencement scene, another view of the Chapel, Kilgo Tower, the Medical School from the Clock Tower, an imposing view of the Chapel from the air, and at the bottom, one of the many reasons for Spring Fever—a restful campus scene.

Feminine pulchritude starts this page; then three life guards??; and below, alas—one student. In the oval “the skipper’s pride.” five cents a ride. In the circle Croson says, “Who says I’m big?” In the lower right, a fast disappearing campus institution, the incorporated Ford.

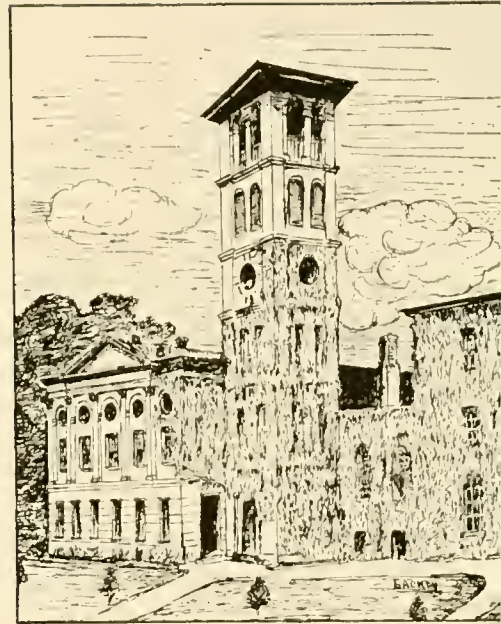

Above we have Duke's royal family: then, a chap who's just two-hundred and ten feet above terra firma. In the circle—two "big shots": and three of a kind in the oval. At the lower right—this is a one-horse place. "Bee" and "Tubby" are in the circles. At the left, we see "Homage to Duke."

Director of Physical Education

WALLACE WADE

Much has been said about Coach Wallace Wade and his eventful career before he came to Duke and we are proud to have such a distinguished man for our head football coach and athletic director, but what should principally interest us is what he is accomplishing here at Duke in an effort to build up a strong school spirit. It is an acknowledged fact that in a school like Duke which has grown larger and more cosmopolitan almost over night, that the spirit among the students has quite a time keeping pace with the size of the school. Wade is trying to build up strong teams to stir the pride in the school and so contribute his part to the whole scheme. He has a hard task, but he has made a good start and we wish him luck.

THE COACHING STAFF, 1931-32

The 1931-32 coaching staff combined an illustrious group of mentors, each of whom is a leader in his field.

Eddie Cameron directed the football backfield in the fall and the basketball quint in the winter. Carl Voyles specialized on the ends during the grid season and then coached track in the spring. Caldwell, Hagler, and Sington, Wade's Alabama proteges, supplemented the football staff, running the frosh and helping with the varsity. Alex Waite had charge of both football and basketball reserve squads, and Caldwell put the frosh quint through their paces.

Jack Coombs, veteran "Athletic" hurler, tutored the diamond artists. Add Warren gave the boxers and wrestlers their inspiration; Persons coached the swimmers; Tuttle the cross-country and track teams, and Gerard handled all of the intra-mural sports.

KIDD BREWER
Captain

CAPTAIN BREWER

Captain Kidd Brewer led the Blue Devils this last year in true captain style. Brewer was the main cog of the smashing offense and was the biggest ground gainer for the team. Besides furnishing the extra punch for the team on the offense and often carrying most of the load himself, he was a beareat on defense and did a great part in stopping the opposing attacks. Kidd was injured in the Carolina game and carried off the field cold, but the following week he was back at his post, carrying on. Besides his football work, Brewer made his letter in track and boxing, and played in several basketball games.

FOOTBALL 1931 SEASON

The 1931 edition of the Blue Devils, with Wade at the helm for the first time, made a great effort to keep up the record of last year's team, and when the season was completed and the games reviewed, they showed that this fighting team had played seven conference foes, winning three times, losing three times and playing once for a scoreless tie, to give them a high place in the conference standing. In addition to these conference tilts, the Devils played two additional games in the state, winning one and chalking up another scoreless tie in the other, besides defeating a strong intersectional team.

South Carolina was the first opponent of the season and the Devils met them in Columbia, hoping to get even for last year's defeat. Numerous fumbles at inopportune moments cost the Devils the game, but even then they were able to hold the Gamecocks to a 7-0 victory. The Devils seemed rather weak on offensive except for sporadic runs which were not bunched to make scores. Abbott made the best gains for Duke.

The following Saturday the Devils met V. M. I. for the Homecoming game and despite a rather ragged attack managed to hold the visitors scoreless while they accounted for two touchdowns, winning 13-0. Brownlee led the Devil offensive and, with Brewer, accounted for most of the Duke gains, the latter scoring both of the touchdowns.

After playing two rather mediocre games, the entire Duke team rose to great heights to completely smother the highly touted Villanova eleven in the second home game. The Devil's line, led by Adkins, was puncture-proof against all threats, and on the offensive drove the opposition back at will to let the Duke backs scurry through for gains. Taking advantage of the breaks in the form of three fumbles, the Devils converted each into a touchdown. Harton recovered two of the fumbles and Adkins the other. Nice passing by Mason and running by Brewer who scored two of the markers were the high points of the backfield. Brownlee caught a pass to score the other touchdown.

As usual Davidson upset the dope and held the over-confident Devils to a scoreless tie. Both teams resorted to the air numerous times and each made several scoring threats which were in turn halted either by penalties or incompleated passes. Mason was easily the outstanding Duke star. Brewer was a veritable battering ram, punching big holes in the line for long gains. Crawford, Adkins, and Rogers did most of the tackling for the Devils. Wake Forest bore the brunt of the Devil's wrath after their disappointing engagement at Davidson and the Deacons were white-washed by a 28-0 score. Brewer was the big gun for Duke, accounting for 26 of the 28 points. In the first quarter, Captain "Kidd" accounted for the first two touchdowns in short order on long runs. Harton stopped the only Wake threat when he recovered a fumble on the Duke 10 yard line. Bryan blocked a Deacon punt to account for a safety in the third quarter. In the final period, Brewer caught a pass for a touchdown and later scored again after Crawford and Hyatt connived to take the ball from a Wake passer. A real slaughter!

Traveling to Tennessee for the first football contest between the schools the Devils were snowed under by a 25-2 score, but in so doing gained the distinction of being the first team to score on the mighty Volunteers for the '31 season. Hyatt and Harton by rushing a Volunteer kicker accounted for the safety after the Devils failed by inches to score on a touchdown drive. The entire team played heads-up football and Adkins, ably assisted by Bryan, Harton and Crawford smeared play after play. The Volunteers just had too great a team.

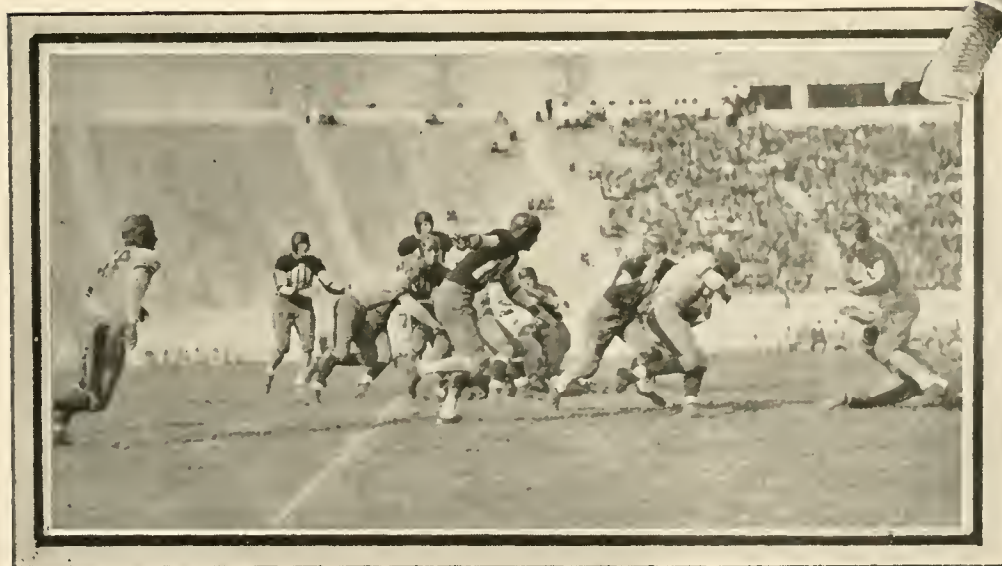

Again traveling west, this time to Kentucky, the Devils came out the victors, winning 7-0. Kentucky pushed the Devils back almost at every turn, but the Duke line stiffened at the crucial moments and stopped the scoring threats. The Devil ends, Hyatt and Crawford again did much to stop the tide. It was Pap Harton who converted sure defeat into victory, when he caught a fumbled pass and ran 21 yards for the only score, after Crawford tackled the Kentucky thrower.

The biggest surprise of the year came when State came over here and simply handed the Devil's a 14-0 defeat. The let-down after the Kentucky fray was too much for the Duke players and they simply didn't have any stuff left. Sink and Hyatt were the only Duke men who flashed any form at all in the line. State made their two scores on long runs which caught the Devils flat footed.

A week later the Devils met their traditional foes, the Carolina Tar Heels, and for the second time in as many years fought them to a 0-0 draw. Brewer made a scoreless touchdown in the first quarter, the play being called back and a penalty inflicted on Duke. In the second quarter, a Carolina back did the same thing and was likewise called back and a penalty given. That ended the scoring threats and from then on both teams divided possession of the ball which stayed nearly in the middle of the field. The Devils failed to get their long awaited win, but by holding Carolina for the second time, they proved that they are breaking the Carolina jinx.

The final scheduled game of the year was played at Washington and Lee. The Devils were playing against their old mentor DeHart who saw his new pupils defeated by a lone touchdown. This, the only score of the game, happened at the start of the second half when Mason returned the kick-off 88 yards. Sensational running and expert blocking turned the trick. Both teams failed by inches to score in the opening half, and the game resulted in a punting duel between James and Laney of Duke, and Bailey of W. and L. Captain Brewer who was injured in the Carolina game was back on his job and turned in the best defensive game for the Devils.

To finish up the year, Duke joined hands with Carolina against a squad made up of players from State, Davidson and Wake Forest for a charity game. The teams were evenly matched, but the Dukolina team won 14-0. In this game, Brewer ran for his second scoreless touchdown, galloping 65 yards untouched, but the play was called back and Dukolina penalized for holding. Laney, Mason, and Crawford also contributed good exhibitions in this post-season game.

Five seniors finished up brilliant careers this year, each of whom played consistent ball all season. Captain Brewer, Adkins, Bryan, Hyatt, and Carpenter finished their three years of varsity play. While no Duke men were named as All-Southern players, Adkins, center, and Brewer, fullback, were the objects of much praise from Associated Press writers and gained honorable mention. Brewer was fifth high scorers in the South. Gold watches were given to the five graduating men by the Durham County Alumni. Varsity letters were given to: Captain Brewer, Brownlee, Mullen, Abbott, Ershler, Mason, Belue, and Laney, backs: Hyatt, Sink, Crawford, Rogers, James, Bryan, Harton, Friedman, Shock, Carpenter, Adkins, Hamrick, linesmen; and Leight, student manager.

There are always some men who do not come in for the publicity and yet who are always on the job and whose presence is indispensable. Such were Werner, veteran guard of every game, and Ershler and Mullen, blocking half backs who rarely got the glory of running with the ball, but who also rarely missed cutting down opposing tacklers.

On the whole the 1931 season was a decided success and praise should be given the members of the team who labored under a new system and who bore up so well under the arduous schedule.

BASKETBALL

Coach

BASKETBALL, 1932

At the start of the season the basketball quint was practically an unknown quantity which, as the season progressed, developed into a fast moving, accurate shooting bunch of boys who played faultless ball at times only to lapse sadly in form when they were indisposed. Building his team around the only two regulars who returned, namely Shaw at guard and Carter at forward, Coach Cameron worked out a combination which played ball that was reminiscent of the old days of Werber, Councillor, Farley, Croson and Rogers.

The season was started during the Christmas holidays when the team traveled North only to have both Baltimore University and Georgetown trounce them. In the final game of the trip the Duke boys got together and trimmed Catholic University 41-29.

After the holidays the Devils handily disposed of the Wake Forest Deacons, only allowing them two field goals in the entire game. On the following night the Devils beat William and Mary, 28-20, in an extra period, after trailing three points at the half, and being tied at the end of the regular game.

Again turning their eyes Northward the Blue Devils entrained for West Point where the Cadets lucked out a 25-23 win after the Devils had played them to a standstill, the score having been knotted not less than five times in the final period. The Crescent Athletic Club composed of ex-college stars trimmed the Duke team 44-31 on the following night. In the game with Navy, the Devils held a 11-9 margin at the half, but the Middies started a scoring splurge in the second period and ran away to a 36-25 win.

Returning home the team met State at Durham and despite being doped to lose, crashed through to a safe 28-18 win. The Devils kept the Davidson Wildcats from making a single field goal when they practically shut them out 21-6. Cameron's boys were sadly lacking in their customary precision on the following night and were smothered by Carolina 37-20. Countless fumbles and bad passes were the ruin of the Devils. Two nights later the Devils again defeated Davidson, this time 33-20.

Again filled with wander-lust the Devils went to Lexington, Va. and earned a thrilling last minute 30-27 decision over W. and L. The following night the Devils staged a run-away to beat V. M. I. 41-26. Kentucky got a real scare before they managed to get a 37-30 decision. The Devils got more goals from the floor, but were beaten by foul shots. After resting over the week-end the Duke quint forced Tennessee to a extra period game before losing, 21-31.

Returning to state competition the Devils disposed of Wake Forest despite having a bad night and then turned the tables on Carolina by trimming them 24-18. The Devils next met N. C. State at Raleigh for the last big five contest. Duke came from behind in the closing minutes to win 25-21 and get the state title for the third successive year.

The Devils slipped from top form when W. & L. paid a visit and the Generals walked away with the game 20-12. V. M. I. was slaughtered 46-25 as the Devils scored at will and kept the game well in hand. The final game of the season followed these two when Maryland brought her championship team here, getting a 20-18 extra period win. The failure of the Devils to score their free throws cost them the game, as they gave the Maryland five tit for tat on the floor.

In the conference tournament, the Devils rated a slim chance to come through, started off like a house afire and polished off Vanderbilt and Florida before going stale and taking the count from Georgia in the semi-finals. Georgia went on to beat Carolina in the finals.

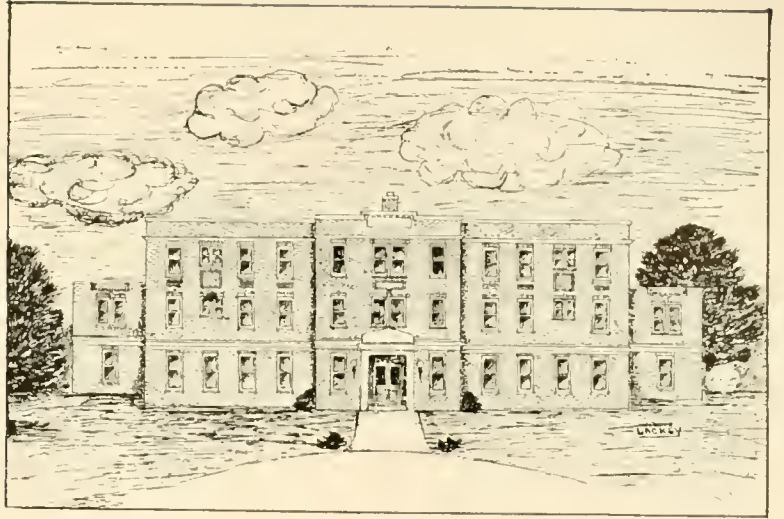

Outstanding during the entire season was the accurate shooting of Jim Thompson and Roy Alpert. These two boys handled the ball skillfully to the chagrin of all opposing guards. Shaw and Carter played consistent games all through the season and finished up their college basketball. Colley only played for half the season but established himself as a brilliant guard. Herb Thompson and Lewis also played fine games.

Handicapped by the loss of the greater portion of the 1930 wonder line—composed of Werber, Kistler, Farley, Jenkins, Dean, and the rest—and with only a handful of sophomores for his material, Coach Coombs played the miracle man and brought to Duke once more a winning ball club. When the curtain was rung down on the season's play, the Blue Devils had come out of the spring strife with the record of eleven wins against four losses.

The schedule, which called for six games during the Easter holidays, was upset when rain caused five games to be cancelled. Of these five games that were called off, four were during the Easter series, and consequently the boys spent a rather dull vacation here. Two games were played, however, and the Devils won both of them by the score of 6-5. Princeton and U. of Pennsylvania were compelled to go back home because of the bad weather.

Upon narrowing down to competition within the state, our under-rated baseball club proved to the fans that it had the goods when it came through with wins over Wake Forest twice, N. C. State once, and Davidson once. By this time, Duke baseball followers had realized that we had a pretty good club.

With a record of six won and none lost, Coach Coombs took his boys into northern territory where, even though they lost three out of the five games played up there, the team showed its worth by giving some of the north's finest baseball aggregations a stiff run for their money. At Penn the Devils lost a tough one when Dr. Carriss' boys eked out a 11-10 win in a losely played game. The weather was more suitable for ice-hockey than for baseball, and our southerners had a hard time getting accustomed to it. The next day was off, and the entire team took in a big league ball game at the Phillies' park in Philadelphia. At Princeton Bobby Coombs worked a fine game to beat the Tigers 6-5. This game was featured by Shore's two home runs. In New York on the following afternoon Horace Duffy lost a heartbreaker to Fordham 3-2. A freak double play by Colley was outstanding in this fray. Duke had better luck with N. Y. U. when they nosed out a 12-11 victory. That night the club hopped a train for Washington, and on the next day lost to Navy at Annapolis 13-8 in the worst ball game of the season. As the scores indicate, the northern trip cannot be termed an altogether unsuccessful one.

When the Devils returned to their own stamping grounds, they immediately took on two more state teams as preliminaries to the final two-game series with our ancient rivals, the Tarheels. Both N. C. State and Davidson bowed to Coach Coombs' strategy for the second time in the season. With a very good record already compiled, the Devils met the boys from the Hill and easily beat them 8-4 to win the first of the two-game series and the State title to boot. Bobby Coombs pitched masterly ball and was never in danger throughout the game. He was aided, however, by the heavy hitting of his teammates, especially Robertshaw and Shore who connected for home runs in the first inning.

At Carolina with one day's rest the two teams went at it again, but the tables were turned, and for the first time since 1927 Duke lost to Carolina in baseball. The score was 6-2 against us.

Thus, Duke's baseball record for the season was eleven wins against four losses for a percentage of .733. They had won seven and lost one within the state to garner their third consecutive State title. Coach Jack Coombs deserves a great deal of credit for moulding a winning team out of material that was practically unacquainted with college baseball.

TRACK, 1931

The 1931 track season was a success from every point of view, the Duke cinder men, led by Captain Simon, getting a tie for fourth place in the conference indoor meet, following this up with four wins in five starts in dual meets, slumping to get fourth in the state meet and then getting ninth in the conference outdoor meet at Birmingham. At the end of the season Duke men were in possession of Southern Conference records for the first time in the history of the school, namely Fulmer holding the indoor broad jump record of 22 feet 8½ inches, and Brownlee the outdoor 220 yard low hurdles records of 24 seconds. Fulmer was the first and only Duke man to score in the Penn Relays when he got third in the broad jump, and Brownlee was the first Duke man to place in the Chicago Intercollegiates when he got third in the low hurdles, running against the best in the country.

Captain Simon and Fulmer got firsts in the two mile and broad jump to give Duke ten points and tie for fourth place in the Southern Conference indoor meet.

In the first outdoor meet the Devils unexpectedly took nine first places from W. and L. to help pile up a wide margin and a 74-52 win.

The following week Duke swamped the Wake Deacons, getting thirteen firsts out of a possible fourteen.

Davidson furnished the thriller when they were leading by ten points with only two events left, and Duke took a clean sweep in the high jump and first in the broad jump to give the Devils a close 63-62 decision.

Continuing their winning streak the Devils ate up the State Wolfpack to beat them 73-53, again knocking down nine firsts, as well as seven second places.

Carolina handed the Devils their only setback of the season when they barely managed to get a 68-58 win. The Heels were protecting a ten year record and they nearly got it dirty.

In the state meet the boys took a rest and Brownlee and Fulmer were the only Duke men to get firsts, these in the 220 and broad jump respectively. Duke finished a poor fourth.

At Birmingham for the Southern Conference meet Duke placed ninth, with Brownlee setting a new record in the low hurdles and Fulmer getting third in the broad jump. This finished up the season.

Letters were awarded to Captain Simon, Brewer, Brownlee, Bradsher, Colley, Fulmer, Heizer, Hicks, Lewis, Lemon, McLarty, Ripley, Sharpe, Smith, Turner, and Ross, Manager.

MINOR SPORTS

MINOR SPORTS

While the minor sports at Duke do not get as much publicity as the major sports, they do fill a very important place on the campus and contribute a great deal to the completeness of the university life. They furnish a wider range of choice for the students who want to participate in athletics and yet who do not like or who are not able to compete in one of the four major sports.

Duke has always had her share of champion boxers and wrestlers in the conference. In fact, during this last year, outstanding men were produced in each. Lloyd, next year's boxing captain, now holds the bantamweight conference title and Bryan, next year's wrestling captain is one of the best 175 pounders in the conference. With these two men as leaders and prospects for teams of like ability the chances for a good future are great.

Cross-country teams have always shown up well, as have those in swimming, to a certain extent, but no marvelous teams have come to light in either. Likely freshmen outfits this year make next year's chances better.

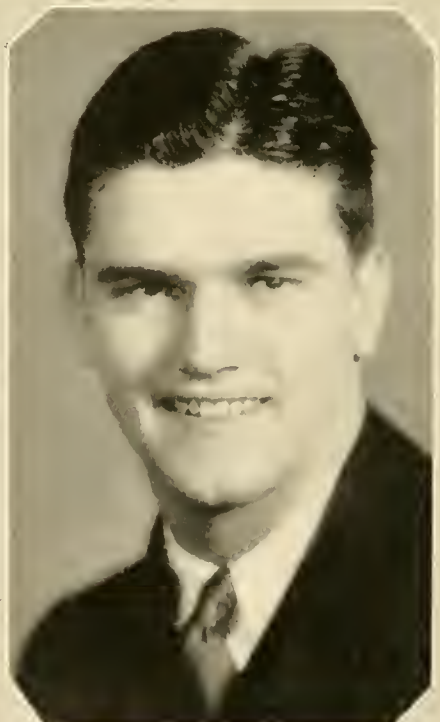

Tennis has enjoyed fair success in the past and the team is improving every year. The golfers came through the season last year with flying colors. It really looks as if the best thing to say about these sports is that they have great chances for success in the future.

BOXING, 1931-32

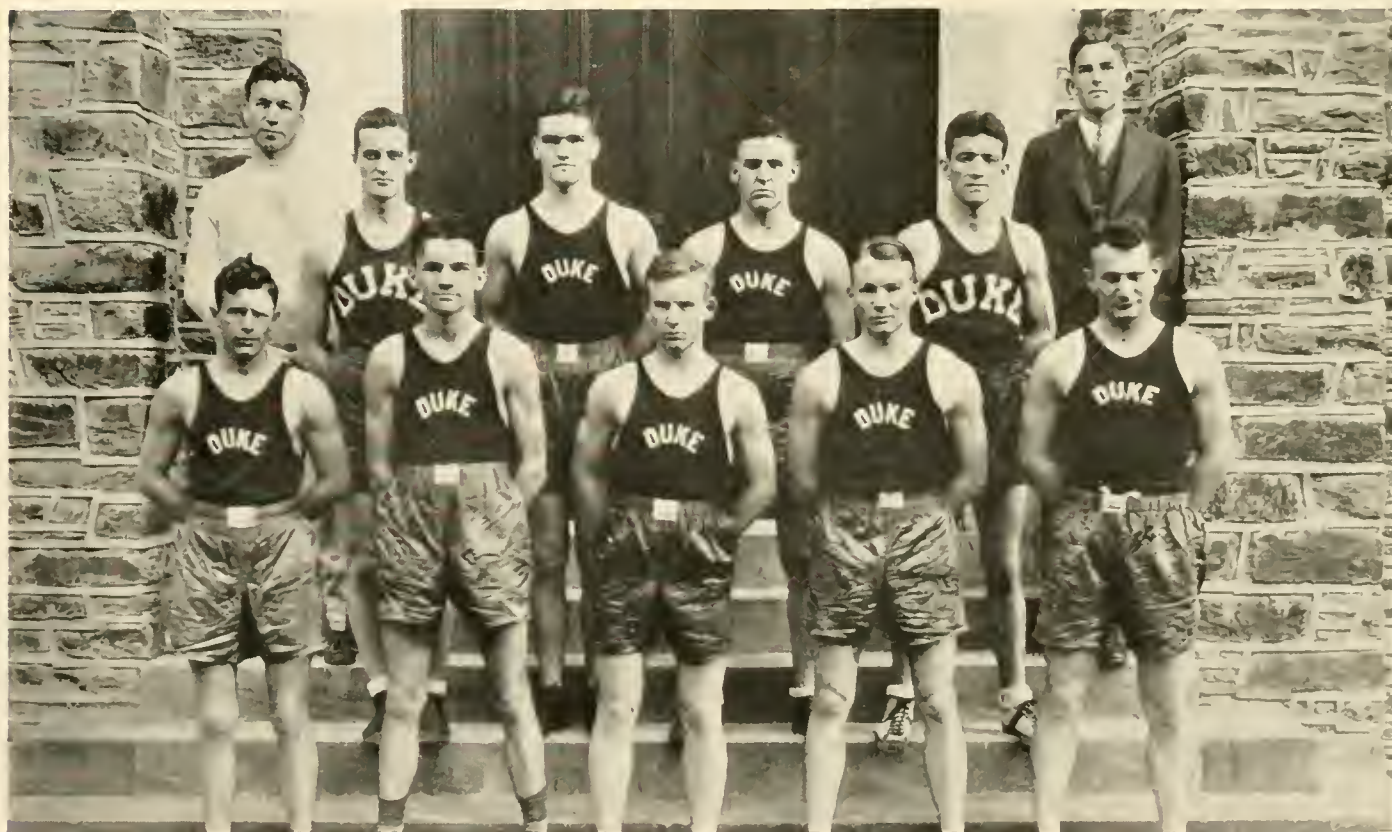

Primed by a series of meets with the leading teams of the south, Duke boxers battled their way to a tie with Tulane for second place in the 1932 conference tournament. Fred Lloyd, Duke sophomore, was crowned conference bantamweight champion to displace Minardi of Florida. Lloyd scored two knock-outs and a clean decision to gain his title. Leroy Sides also showed up splendidly in the tournament, being runner-up for the lightweight title when he lost a close decision in the finals.

During the regular season the Warren punch-merchants won only one match out of five, but three of the losses, namely those to Carolina, Virginia, and Tulane were hair raising 4-3 decisions. The Devils smothered State 5-2 and lost to Florida by the same count. Captain Phil Bolich finished up a brilliant career of boxing this year, with a long record of victories against a few unfortunate defeats. When fighting in his proper weight and when up to top form, Bolich was unbeatable.

The following men received letters: Captain Bolich, Winslow, Bryan, Parrish, Lloyd, Scott, Sides, and Power, Manager.

WRESTLING, 1931-32

Starting the season with uncertain prospects, the Duke wrestling team, coached for the first time by Add Warren, developed into a strong threat that won three out of five meets. Only two men, Captain Gamble and Pinkie Plaster, had any experience to back up their tries at the start, but from this green material arose a group of matmen who captured the state championship, and who gave the Washington and Lee southern titlists their most stubborn opposition of the year. The Devils beat Carolina, V. P. I., and Davidson, but lost to V. M. I. and W. and L.

Onisko (115 lb.), Gamble (125 lb.), Reed (145 lb.), and Bryan (175 lb.) were the outstanding men in the state in their respective weights, Bryan being one of the best in the Southern Conference. Bryan topped the Devil scorers with 19 points as he went through the season undefeated. Gamble's record was only marred by a draw and Onisko went undefeated until his last match. Gamble's loss by graduation will be keenly felt as he has always been a consistent point winner. Letters were awarded to Onisko, Captain Gamble, Joyce, Reed, Apple, Plaster, Bryan, Keefer, and Griffith, Manager.

TENNIS, 1931

Although four veterans failed to return, the Devil netmen, led by Captain Rogers and Myers, captain in 1930, enjoyed a fair season in 1931.

The Devils were defeated in the big five only by the Tar Heels who blanked them 9-0 twice. State fell before the Duke boys 9-0 and Wake Forest 8-1, while Davidson succumbed by a 6-3 count. Sewanee sent a powerful team up here, but they were beaten 4-2. The Duke racqueteers returned from their northern trip with one victory, three losses, and two cancelled matches on the books. Virginia snowed them under and both Georgetown and the Country Club of Virginia won close 5-4 decisions. The Devils whipped Richmond 9-0 in the final match of the trip. In the state meet both Rogers and Myers worked up to the semi-finals but were ousted by Hines and Grant, Carolina's stars.

Rogers, playing number one, was the most brilliant player for the Devils, losing several tough matches by slender margins when matched against the best racquets in the south, such as Burwell, Grant, Mangin, and Smith. Garber played the best game for the new men. Letters were awarded to Capt. Rogers, Myers, Garber, Peake, Clarke, Fulp, and Green, Manager.

SWIMMING, 1932

Duke swimmers opened their season with a one sided 53-13 win over the Erwin swimmers club of Durham. The Devils took first place in every event, O'Connor getting high scoring honors with first places in the 50 and 100 yard dashes.

Getting into intercollegiate competition the Devils were forced to bow before Virginia 50-25. The Devilfish failed to get a single first place and seemed to be handicapped by their inability to get good starts.

In the second collegiate dual meet the Devils were subdued by Washington and Lee 45-21 in the Generals' pool. McAnnally and Farthing annexed first places for Duke in the 220 yard breast stroke and diving respectively. McAnnally set a new pool record of 2 minutes, 45.6 seconds when he led the breast stroke.

Taking another trip the Devils lost to William and Mary and to George Washington. In the William and Mary meet Sippel got first in the 440 free style, Dein first in the back-stroke and McAnnally set another pool record in the breast stroke to feature the meet.

Near the close of the season Coach Person's charges won the first annual state meet which was held in the Duke pool. Duke scored 57 points as against 48 for State, and 3 for Carolina. Sippel got first place in the 220 and 440 yard free style races to star for Duke. The Duke relay team, composed of McAnnally, Norman, Ewell, and O'Connor got first.

GOLF, 1931

Participating in eight dual matches and two tournaments, the Blue Devil golfers of 1931 coped successfully with an unusually difficult schedule. Four victories were hung up while a single tie and three defeats were turned in as the result of the dual meet schedule. In tournament competition the Devil swingers placed third in both the state and Southern Conference meets.

The Duke golfers commenced the season with a close victory over W. and L. followed by a tie with the Carolina team. In their next meet with Georgia Tech the Blue Devil stickmen played fine golf to down the Techmen 12-6. The following two matches were dropped to the Tar Heels and Davidson. Journeying into Virginia, the Devils avenged their 15-3 defeat of last year in overwhelming the Virginians by this same score. While away the Duke golfers also routed the Medical College of Virginia to the tune of 17-1. In the final dual meet of the season, the Devil outfit, playing under Intercollegiate rules for the first time, lost to William and Mary. The team fared extremely well at the tournament in Athens, Georgia, coming in behind Tulane and Vanderbilt to take third position.

The team, composed of Captain Randle, June Caldwell, Bill Hay, and John Zimmerman, showed much ability throughout the year to leave a fine record for the 1932 team to equal.

CROSS COUNTRY, 1931

Opening against Davidson the Duke harriers had a close call to get a 26-29 win. Bray sprinted the last sixty yards of the three mile course to barely get first from Brandon who is one of the best two milers in the state. Bradsher and Miles got fourth and fifth places.

In the second meet of the fall, Carolina beat the Duke harriers 22-35. Jerry Bray ran a fast race, finishing only 24 seconds behind two Carolina men to get third place. All three men bettered the time made by the winner of the previous year. Nichols was the second Duke man to finish when he came in sixth. This meet proved beyond a doubt that Coach Tuttle had developed a fine team from a bunch of green men.

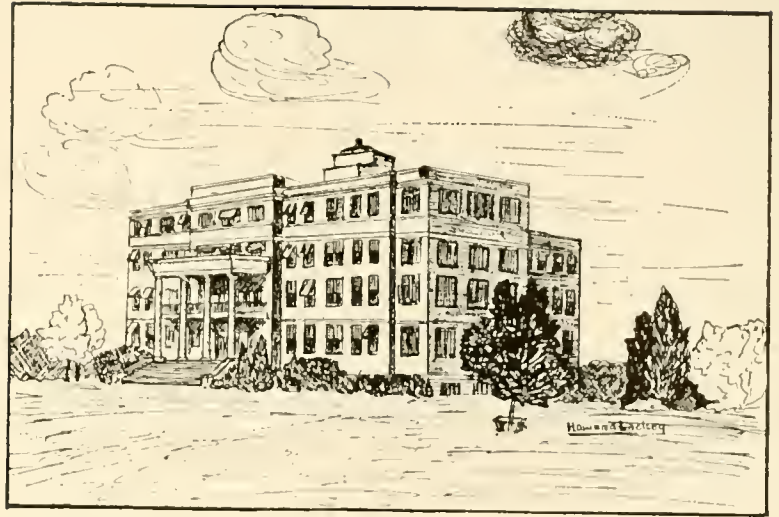

Duke placed fifth in the conference meet at Chapel Hill. Bray led the field for four-fifths of the way but was nosed out at the finish by three Carolina men, giving him fourth place. Nichols ran beautifully to get seventh in the field of fifty-six.

To finish up the season the Devil harriers travelled to Annapolis. Bray led the harriers over a rain soaked course. Nichols, Lewis, and Miles, of Duke finished third, fourth, and fifth, respectively to give Duke a win.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL, 1931

Early in September, a promising squad of more than 125 former prep and high school stars reported to Coaches Caldwell and Sington for the first practice. The Blue Imps gradually developed into a first class eleven, winning four tilts and dropping one.

The new Freshman combination opened the season with a 21-6 victory over the N. C. State outfit on the Raleigh field. This first game revealed two splendid backfield performers in the persons of Brumbach and McAninch. The former reeled off two fine 80-yard runs, while the latter proved exceptionally adept at snagging passes.

On the following week, the Imps captured a 6-0 triumph from a scrappy Oak Ridge team. Andrews, Tarrall, Brumbach and McAninch figured in victory. The Duke forward wall displayed great power in out-charging the soldier boys from Oak Ridge.

For the first time since 1929 the Blue Imps met defeat when a fast-charging line and a hard-running backfield from Wake Forest turned the trick to the tune of 19-0. This loss marred the clean slate of the Baby Devils.

Displaying a fast brand of ball, the Imps next downed their ancient rivals, the Tar Babies, 12-0, on the Chapel Hill gridiron. Lee and Brumbach ran well behind a powerful line to take honors for the afternoon.

The fighting Freshmen scored a 6-0 triumph over Davidson's Wildkittens to complete a successful season of football. A perfectly executed forward pass proved the lone margin of victory.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL, 1931-32

The Blue Imp quintet completed a very successful cage season this year under the direction of Coach Caldwell. The 1931 Freshman outfit succeeded in capturing eight victories while suffering defeat only three times. A number of outstanding players were uncovered in the course of the season so that Coach Caldwell used two teams in most of the games.

Early in the season the Imps gave promise of developing into a smooth-passing and accurate-shooting combination. Bell and Polack, forwards, displayed a fine eye for the hoop as well as a reliable brand of floor work. Pargoe, huge center, was especially efficient in getting possession of the ball. Their debut was made with impressive wins over Carolina Frosh and Wake Forest while a close game was dropped to the Freshman five from N. C. State. Successive victories were won over Staunton M. A., Belmont Abbey, Oak Ridge, Davidson and Benedictine Prep. The Blue Imps lost a second game to the flashy N. C. State quint and dropped a return contest to the Tar Babies by a very close score. The Wake Forest Freshmen were downed in a return tilt for the second time.

Although this quintet suffered an occasional slump, they proved themselves capable of playing first class ball. During the season about a dozen players performed especially well and should furnish strong material for next year's varsity outfit.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL, 1931

A fine record of ten wins and two defeats was turned in by the Blue Imp nine of 1931. Under the effective tutelage of coaches "Foxy" Dean and Red Murray, the Frosh outfit played heads up ball throughout the season. Several star pitchers as well as a number of dependable batsmen were unearthed in the course of the season.

The Blue Impmen made their debut into Freshman baseball circles with impressive victories over N. C. State and Carolina. Hargrader, Peckham, and Hendrickson proved the chief cogs in the Duke play. In these initial games the new outfit gave great promise of developing into a first class baseball nine.

In the third game of the year a fast playing combination from Danville Military Academy downed the Implets 8-6. Tyson led the batsmen for the day with three hits out of the five trips to the plate. Duke played their most erratic game of the season.

In the course of the next few weeks, the Imps played outstanding ball in defeating teams from Davidson, Rutherford College, Wake Forest, Oak Ridge, and Asheville High. During this period, the Freshmen lost their second game of the season when the N. C. State yearlings captured a close contest from the Duke outfit.

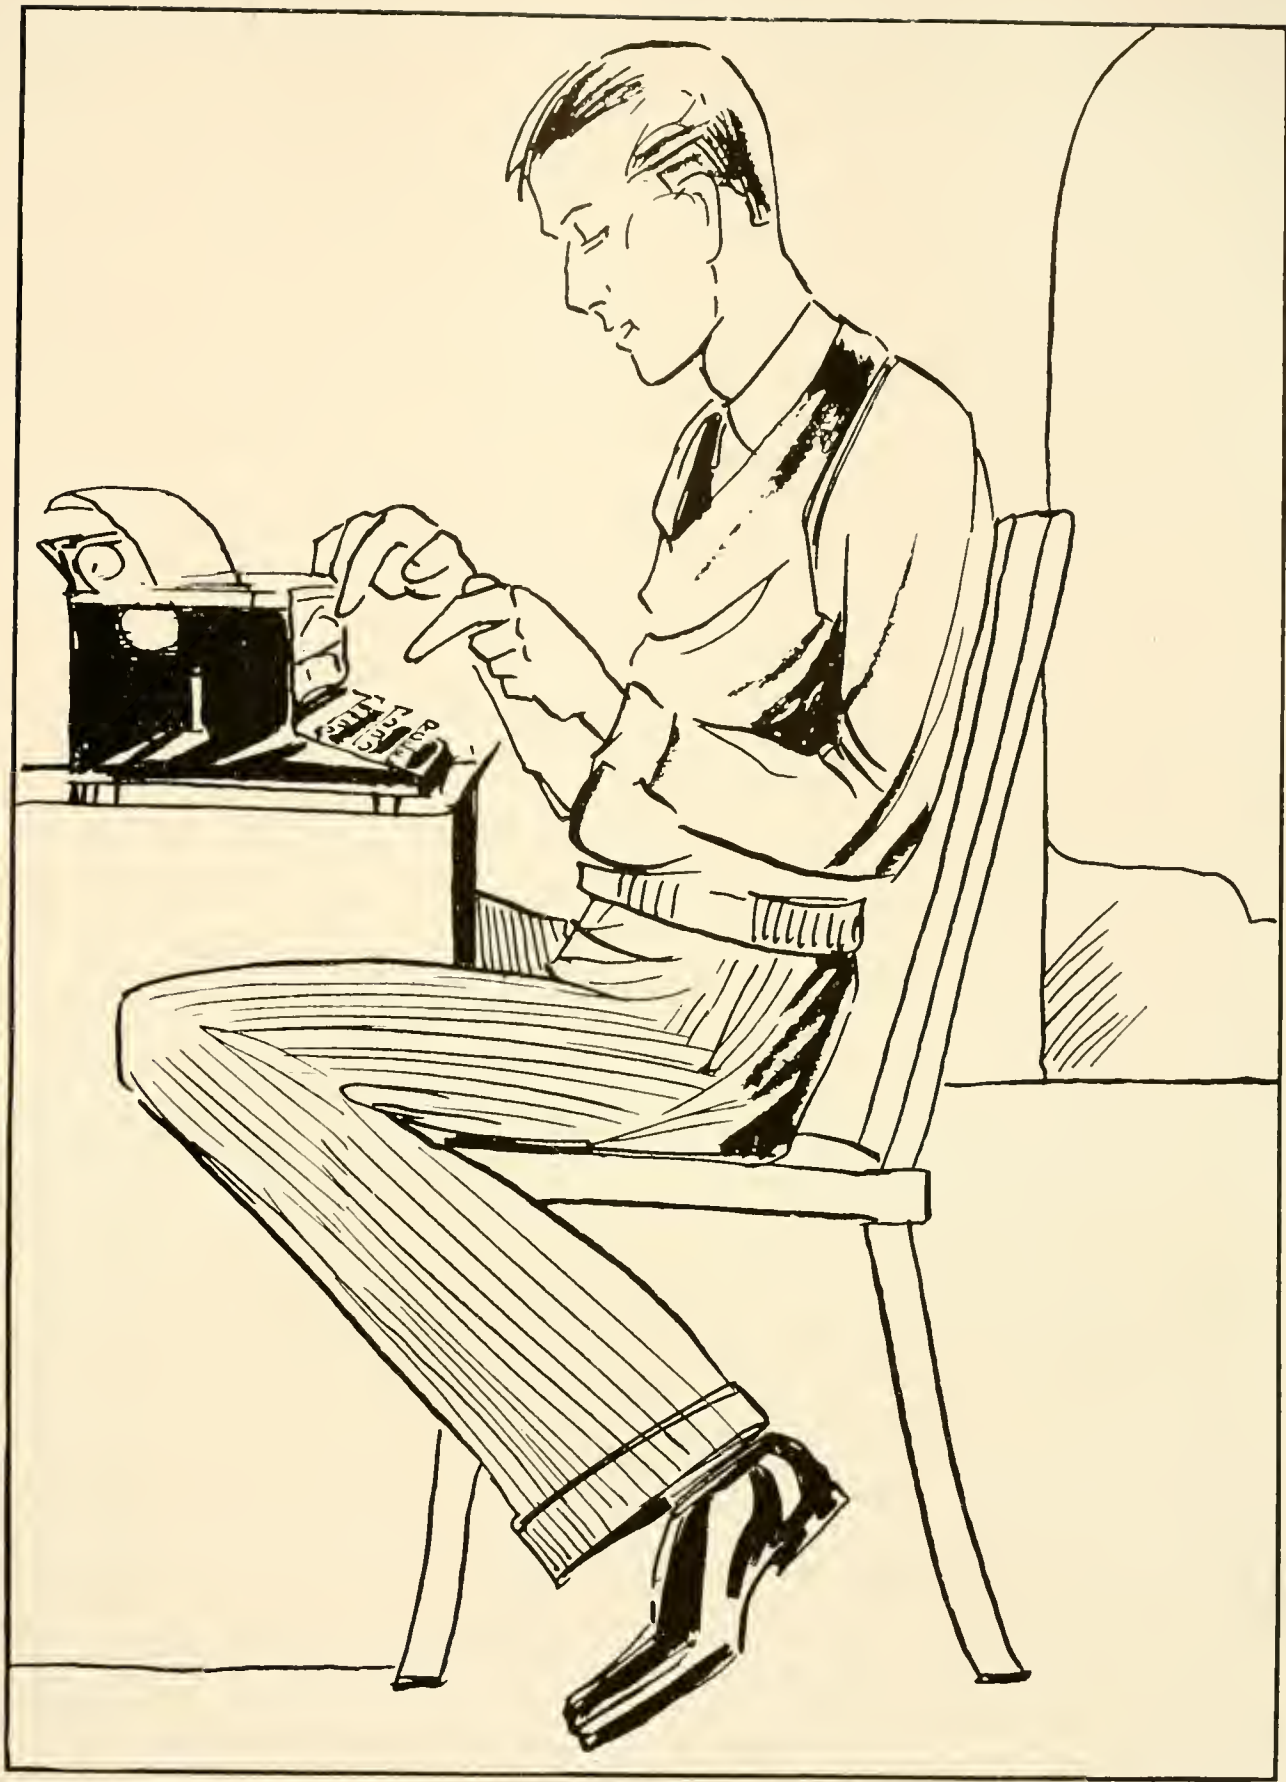

In completing the baseball season, the Freshmen won handily from the Augusta Military Academy and the Carolina Tar Babies. Alpert and Flohr twirled great ball in these final games. Hendrickson continued his spectacular infielding, while Mitchell, Gadd, and Tyson proved effective with the stick.

THE DUKE PLAYERS SEASON 1931-32

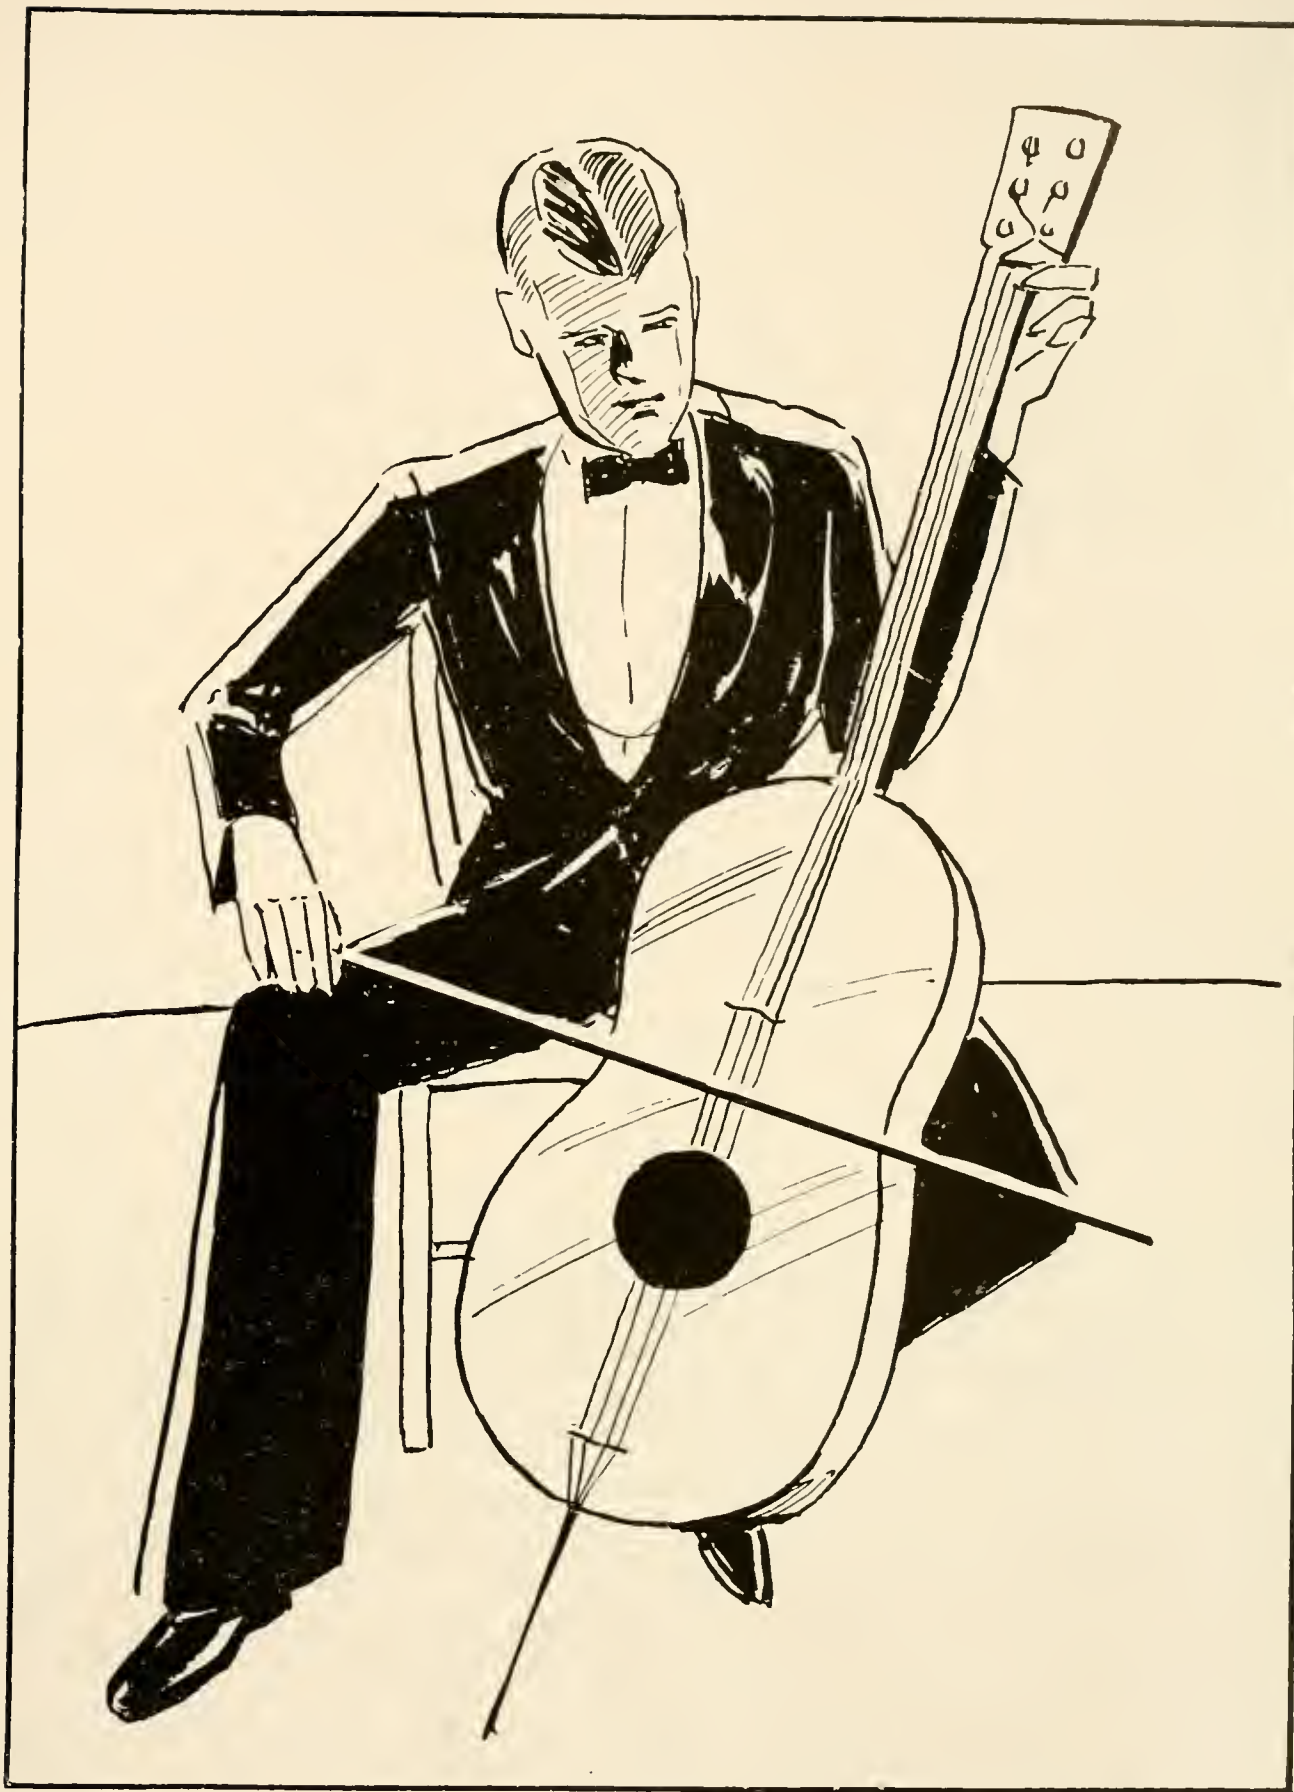

The Duke Players, successor to the Taurians, can point to 1931-32 as a red letter year in their existence. Under a new name and a complete reorganization, they have terminated a program of a scope and excellence unprecedented in their history.

In the fall the Duke Players presented Bernard Shaw's Arms and the Man. This play was taken to Rocky Mount where it was most enthusiastically received. In the spring they produced Barrie's The Youngest and Martinez-Sierra's The Romantic Young Lady. A one-act play, Suppressed Desires, entered the dramatic contest at the University of North Carolina.

The Quadrangle pictures invited the Duke Players to participate in their birthday celebration. For this purpose an original skit, Our Nell, burlesquing the old melodrama, was composed and staged. The dramatically inclined public of Duke University and the surrounding community have appreciatively received Sunday night play readings held in the Little Theatre.

ADS AND FEATURES

*“That bully old slogan hits
me just right—*

...no bamboozlin' about that!”

SURE! When a word fits, you know it! “Satisfy” just fits CHESTERFIELD. A smoker picks up a package, and he likes its neat appearance—moisture-tight but easy to open. That satisfies him.

Then he examines a Chesterfield. It is well-filled; it is neat in appearance; the paper is pure white. And that satisfies him.

He lights up. At the very first puff he likes the flavor and the rich aroma. He decides that it tastes better—neither raw nor over-sweet; just pleasing and satisfying . . . Then he learns it is milder. That's another way of saying that there is nothing irritating about it . . . And again he's satisfied!

Satisfy—they've got to satisfy! The right tobaccos, the CHESTERFIELD kind, cured and aged, blended and cross-blended, to a taste that's right. Everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. CHESTERFIELDS do a complete job of it. They Satisfy!

SORORITY MEETING ACCORDING TO ROBERTS

Three raps sound thus increasing the commotion in the room, then a pitiful little voice, "Will the meeting please come to order?" Noise continues. Three more knocks. Noise increases. Lights go out, thus frightening fair ones who for once become meek and calm. Silence for few moments, someone lights initiation candle. Roll Call: only few names, remainder of girls not in good standing. Call for minutes of last meeting. Secretary comes to life, yawns, inhales of the cigarette tainted air and proceeds hastily, "Meeting called to order by the president. Minutes read and duly criticized, found to be all wrong and the secretary instructed to revise them. Plans for procedure in coming elections discussed. Action deferred until further information could be gathered. Doorkeeper instructed to awaken the dear sisters and the meeting was adjourned." Call for corrections. No response. Mumbblings in far side of room as if bull session is in progress. Voice of Anne recognized, "I don't know which one I like better, I have such a big time with both." President stamps foot. There must be more order. Someone makes a motion that the minutes be accepted, it is seconded and duly passed. Someone asks for discussion of proposed tea party. Discussion entirely personal. "Are you going to the dance?" some innocent asks. Edith awakens with question as to who he is. More giggles. Sounds which suggest snores coming from secretary. Call for treasury report. Treasury absent. Sound of auto horn on outside. Masculine voices. All rush to window except Betty who has been thrown behind chair with wrenched ankle. Call to order but someone objects that there is nothing wrong. Motion made that a tea be given. Telephone call for president. Meeting adjourns. Card tables upset, lamp falls and breaks, low curses, someone tells dirty joke, applause in form of chattering as matron appears on scene to demand quiet. Consensus of opinion that it was the best meeting of the year.

YOU'RE CONTENTED IN HANES UNDER- WEAR

You're sitting pretty in HANES Summer Underwear. It doesn't worm up your legs, or clutch the crotch. You don't know you have it on! And you won't boil when you think of the price, either.

HANES is only 35c to $1.00. Yet it's there when it comes to quality and fit. Some union suits you get into feel as big as a bag. Others, after they're laundered, wouldn't fit a fox terrier. But they're not HANES.

Try-on a pair of shirts-and-shorts. It's certainly a comfort to climb into HANES. The shirts are light as a feather; and really fit your chest. They don't wrinkle like an accordion. Neither do the shorts hike-up your legs, or cut and cramp the crotch. You can bend, twist, stretch, and reach—but HANES won't grip or rip!

HANES makes underwear in every style and material, size and weight that man or boy could want. Don't fail to see it—ask for it by name.

BUILDERS DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

From the art work and engravings to the finished book, this volume is the result of organized coöperation with the Staff.

Such able coöperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete co-operation from art work and engravings to the finished book, we offer unexcelled service. Complete service means undivided responsibility as to the result—one organization to correspond and talk with—one trained director to merge the many ingredients into the finished product.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.

CORRESPONDENCE INVITED

The Observer Printing House, Inc.
322-324 South Church Street
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

THE 1932 CHANTICLEER is complete. We hope its readers will like it. If they do, our efforts and the efforts of those who have so ably assisted us will be amply repaid.

Its production is the result of coöperation—coöperation from the Duke Endowment, from the University, from the staff, both editorial and business, and loyal coöperation from the photographer, engraver and printer.

We especially wish to extend our thanks to Dr. W. S. Rankin of the Duke Endowment, and Professor J. M. Ormond of the University, for their assistance in obtaining material and information; to Mr. H. R. Dwire of the Department of Public Relations and the Alumni Affairs of the University, and his assistants, Misses Elizabeth Aldridge and Laura Deaton, Messrs. Ted Mann and A. A. Wilkerson for their aid both to the Editorial and Business staffs; to Mr. H. A. Siddell of Siddell's Studio, Photographers; Miss Helen Morgan and James W. Bradley of the Southwestern Photo Process Company, Photo-Engravers, and to Charles Lee Smith, Jr., and J. H. Hardison of Edwards & Broughton Company, printers of the 1932 CHANTICLEER, for their able assistance over and above their obligations.

Without the assistance of all of these, the CHANTICLEER as it is would not have been possible.
